

Definitely, Charity begins at home!

No matter what you've done for yourself or for your community, if you can't look back on having given love and attention to your own family, what have you really accomplished? Doing things for total strangers is great, but remember giving starts at home, thus, charity begins at home. I would say that the subject, Mr. Nelson D. Mendoza, for his part, has contributed in one way or another, to the serious responsibility or providing the basic and proper growth and development of his family and his children.

It was imperative of Mr. Mendoza that he accord prioritized attention to the wellbeing of his family, so that he is able to properly prepare them for the time when they will be facing the great task in their future endeavors. He had supported all efforts to strengthen his family ties and elevate their status of living. Having an established technological college, he afforded his family the best of every basic need. He opened and gave employment to other capable family members, and even relatives to earn for a gracious living. The fast technological change is exacting a heavy toll on the family, but not in Mr. Mendoza's family, for his fast growing technological college thro his able management, his "pakikisama" and "pagiging makatao", his family's welfare becomes more stable. Mr. Mendoza believes that the real success is measured not necessarily in terms of monetary returns, but on how well one is able to accomplish ordinary things extraordinary well. Thus, this accomplishment! Agnes E. Da Silva
